Owing to the inclement weather the G. A.R. bean banquet which was advertised to be held at the Opera House last Sa'urday night was postponed indefinitely. We understand that the Post are contemplating substituting a picnic and "fish bake" in the place of it, to consist of an excursion up the river and a general camping out day, sometime the latter part of this month. We sincerely hope the programme will be carried out.

Miss Gertie Conkling, a handsome, refin ed and exceeding popular Gem society star, left for Iola, Kansas, to pay her special friend, Miss Jennie Thornber, of that city a brief visit. Miss Gertie has been the organist of the Baptist church choir of this city for several years, from which position she will be sadly missed for the time being. The Democrat wishes Miss Gertie bon voyage, a gay time and a safe return.—Nevada (Mo.) Democrat.

In publishing this week the last of the "High School Items" for this year, we wish to acknowledge our obligations to the young ladies, Miss Medea Brewster and Miss Lola Smeltzer, who have so kindly furnished them. The "items" have been uniformly newsy "bright and well written and have reflected much credit on the contributors, whom we hope to again draft into the service at the beginning of the new term in September.

Our columns are too much crowded to admit more than the barrest mention of the lecture of Gen. B. M. Prenticethe man that saved the battle of Shibh, at the Opera House Wednesday night. Although only a few hours' notice was given the hall was packed, and the General held the closest attention for two hours while he gave the true history of that fatal first day. If is the kind of a lecture that makes patriots and we cannot have too many patriots and we cannot have too many of them.

Talking about personal peculiarities, in the Court room, the other day, Attorney Keplinger said there was only one eccentricity people would not forgive (in men, of course; everything in women) and that was an eccentric way of combing the hair. In the same connection, he said he had only two ',dude tricks''—wearing a cane and parting his hair in the middle The latter "trick" will be appreciated by those acquainted with the exposed condition of Kep's cranium.

Judge Stillwell's decision in the Edwards' injunction suit, brought against the leaguers for trespass on Mr. Manly's land as noted in last week's Register, was no less emphatic than in the Holstein case. He decreed that they should not enter upon the land again, to add anything to it, or to take anything from it, or in any way interfere with Mr. Manly's possession of it. As they had broken about eight acres of land and ind built a shanty and stable before the sheriff reached them Wednesday morning with a restraining order, this order

We again rise to remark that Iola of-fers a better location for a creamery than any other town of our acquaintance, and any man who knows the business and has the capital to conduct it on a sufficiently large scale, can un-doubtedly reap rich returns. Trains enter the town from all four directions so that an almost unlimited extent of country could be drawn upon for cream while the same roads furnish extra while the same roads furnish extra-facilities for marketing the butter. Experience has shown that a well con-bucted creamery is no longer an ex-periment. The profits are sure, and we write this item in the hope that it may reach the eye of some one who is looking for just such an opportunity as Iola offers.
